Call Trailer-type Homes Burden To Taxpayers

Protest against the installation of trailer-type homes in the village of Westhaven took the form of a public meeting in the Fernway School at 166th st. and 88th ave. Monday night. There had been a previous meeting there but the one Monday was beamed at residents of Westhaven. Officials of neighboring school districts urged the people of Westhaven to influence their village council to refuse any permits for such construction.

Opponents of the program say the homes are simply trailers with the wheels removed and the bodies made fast to a concrete slab. The developers claim they are homes; that not only are the wheels gone but additional rooms attached.

Supt. Norbert Jerling, head of the Orland Park grade schools said his office had been informed that the Cook county assessor's office was inclined to look on the structures as homes and that they would carry an assessed valuation of approximately $4,000.

Love Those Calories! WSCS Smorgasbord Next

The date has been set by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Frankfort Methodist church for its annual spring smorgasbord.

This affair, which has been quite popular in the past, is to be held on a Saturday, April 27, it has been announced by Mrs. Lloyd Heisner, president of the group.

Mrs. Elsie Mark, Mrs. Arthur Borg, Mrs. Marion Bell and Mrs. Clinton Mark have been named to head committees of specialists who will prepare the most popular dishes from past years.

Four servings are planned -- 4:30, 5:30, 6:30 and 7:30. Reser-

Supt. William O. Fisher, head of Sandburg high school, told the audience that if 500 or 550 of these habitations are erected, enough children will be brought into the district to make it necessary for Sandburg to add 20 classrooms by 1971.

He indicated that with the influx of low cost housing the school tax would increase about 30%--15% for the high school and 15% for the grade school.

Supt. John Bannes, head of Kirby-McIntosh school district, which includes the new building at Fernway, said that if these structures are erected to any extent this summer--and they can be put up quickly it was pointed out--his district might have to hire 17 additional teachers next fall at a cost of $93,000.

Bannes added that the school tax rate in his district was now second highest in Cook county and third highest in the state. The rate of $2,444 per $100 of equalized assessed valuation. The people in his district don't want to pay any higher school taxes.

Heavy Voting Marks School District Elections In Area

That lively interest was manifested in the Lincoln-Way high school board election last Saturday was reflected in the fact that 2,401 votes were cast in the seven hours the polls were open.

The two incumbents, Elias Brown, Mokena, and Lorin Schleeter, Manhattan, and the candidate running on the same ticket with them, Wendell Morrison, Frankfort, were elected by substantial margins over organized opposition.

In the New Lenox grade school district the incumbents, Roy Fitzner and John B. Anderson, Jr., were re-elected.

Only one incumbent, Chester Ebert, ran for the grade school board at Mokena and he was re-elected. The other successful candidate there was Fremont Warning.

At Frankfort no incumbents were candidates. Elected there were Lewis Ebert, Glenn Nissen and Clifford Woodman.

There was no contest at Manhattan, Fred L. Richards, incumbent, and David Wandless were elected.

Victors at Summit Hill (Arbury Hills) were John Hayden and Julius Sandy, elected to full three year terms and Robert Dickerson elected for a one year unexpired term. A raise in the educational tax rate was voted down.

In the Ann Rutledge district (Lincoln Estates) Mrs. Jessie Nicholson led the ticket. The other two chosen were Glenn Coburn and Charles Z. Jones, the latter the only incumbent running.

William C. Bettenhausen, of Green Garden, president of the Peotone unit district, No. 207-U, was re-elected. The other board member chosen there was Edwin Moore of Wilton. There was no contest.

In the Homer district, No. 33-C, Merritt J. Cagwin and Joyce Purdy, an incumbent, were elected.

In the Lincoln-Way board election the largest number of votes cast in any one voting district was 596. That was in Mokena with the next largest number cast at New Lenox, 583. The vote in the village of Frankfort was 416 and 393 in Manhattan. There were 219 voters at Lincoln Estates and 194 in Arbury Hills.

The vote for the high school board members: (Precinct table inside) - Wendell Morrison 1,432; Elias Brown 1,391; Lorin Schleeter 1,151; Harold Miller 864; David McClure 813; Robert Fuley 617; Dr. George Morgan 471.

Returns from other school district races:

NEW LENOX NO. 122 (2 elected)
Roy Fitzner 381; J.B. Anderson 297; Victor Miller 214.

MOKENA NO. 159 (2 elected)
Chester D. Ebert 324; Fremont Warning 254; Ralph Thompson 236; Mrs. Victor Peterson 121; Robert Best 85.

FRANKFORT NO. 157-C (3 elected)
Lewis Ebert 302; Glenn Nissen 268; Clifford Woodman 203; Melvin Eisenbrandt 172; Thomas Hedge 153.

SUMMIT HILL NO. 161
The proposal to increase the educational tax fund rate from 96 cents to $1.17 per $100 of equalized assessed valuation was defeated 101 to 89. Indications are the board will re-submit the proposal as soon as may be. The district, which is made up largely of Arbury Hills, is building an addition to the present school to meet the increasing pupil load and the defeat of the educational fund tax rate increase is a set back, it was pointed out. The educational tax rate is used to pay teachers and meet the other costs of operating a school plant. The present rate, it was said, will not produce sufficient revenue to meet the increased costs the addition will entail.

Vote for board members; (2 elected to 3 year terms) - John Hayden 107; Julius Sandy 102; Hyman Kronick 98.

(One year term)
Robert Dickerson 145.
ANN RUTLEDGE NO. 56-C (3 elected)

Jessie Nicholson 181; Glenn Coburn 136; Charles Jones 119; Charles Scheeler 50; Lawrence Griffin, Sr. 42; Paul Wilson 29.

HOMER NO. 33-C (2 elected)
Merritt Cagwin 111; Joyce Purdy 88; Otto Moravec 57.

Mokena School To Revise Its Arithmetic Program

A report on the operation of the mathematics department and teaching methods was made to the Mokena grade school board at its last meeting.

Each month the teachers of a department appear before the board to explain the aim of the department and the manner in which such aim is being reached.

At the last session Mrs. Madeline Gregory, chairman of the math department, and Mrs. Janet McGivern, one of the instructors, reported to the board on several workshops dealing with mathematics which they have attended recently.

Mrs. McGivern, who was at a three-day workshop at Chicago, said that 50% of the schools represented there will change their methods in teaching mathematics, placing greater emphasis on the reasoning of problems.

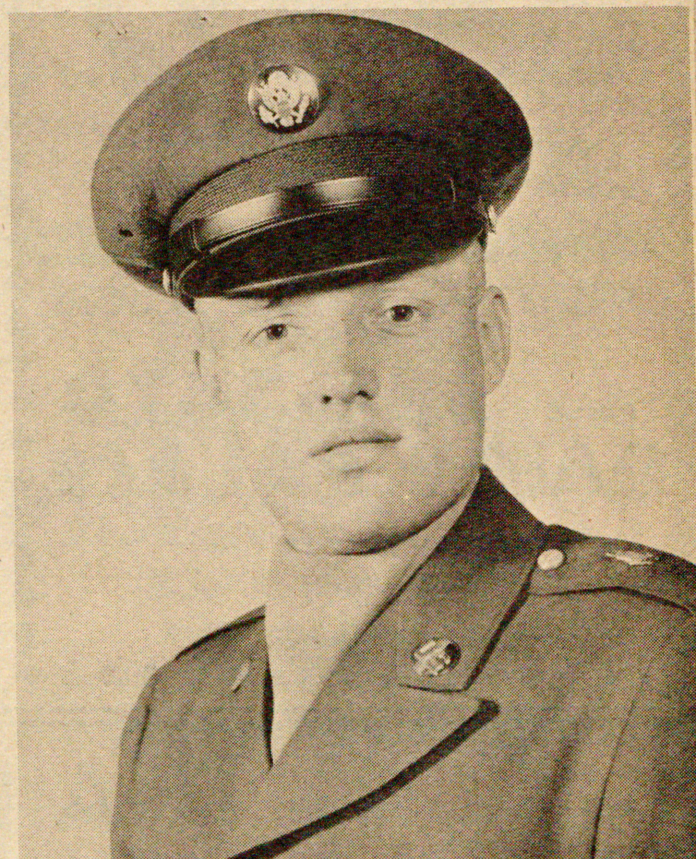

Mrs. Gregory, who has been representing Mokena on the Lincoln-Way high school math study group this school year told the board that it was generally agreed that there is no one textbook adequate to meet the needs for teaching mathematics from the primary grades thru the eighth.

This study group has therefore recommended the following program be followed next year:

The first three grades will use the Greater Cleveland study and material course published by Science Research Associates. Grades four, five and six will have access to the television study course, "Patterns in Arithmetic," which is said to be an excellent course, according to the study group. The seventh and eighth grades will continue to use the same textbook, "Making Sure of Arithmetic," but it will be supplemented by additional material from Science Research Associates.

In the course of other business the board granted a request of the Summit Hill district board for the use of the Carpenter Street school gymnasium for the graduation exercises of Arbury Hills school. The Arbury Hills graduation is scheduled for June 1. In previous years the smaller outlying schools held combined graduation exercises in one of the high schools. In this area Lincoln-Way high was used.

Declare Midway Operation Essential To South Suburbs

(CNS) - Chicago and suburban officials and civic leaders testified Tuesday at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing, that the resumption of airline operations at Midway airport was essential to the south suburbs and Chicago.

The witnesses said that the key to the revitalization of Midway depended upon the quick and inexpensive transportation of passengers to Midway provided by helicopter service.

The CAB conducted its first hearing Tuesday in the City Council chambers on the application of the Chicago Helicopter Airways, Inc. for renewal of its operating license which expires in August. The helicopter company, operating between O'Hare, Midway, the Loop, Winnetka and Gary, has reduced its daily flights from 120 to 60 since scheduled flights from Midway were abandoned last July and is in danger of losing its federal subsidy.

Herbert H. Howell, Chief of the Chicago Aviation Planning Department, testified that early studies indicated 2,000,000 passengers a year could be lost if airline service were restricted to O'Hare. And this conclusion, he pointed out, was based on the assumption that the helicopter service would continue.

Howell stated that many south side and south suburbanites are resorting to other means of transportation because of the inaccessibility of O'Hare. The shift to O'Hare, he said, is causing the relocation of people and industries.

"Scheduled service at Midway is necessary to a balanced transportation pattern" he said, "and helicopter service between the airports is necessary to that pattern as well."

The Chicago Commissioner of Aviation, William E. Downes Jr., agreed with Howell and added that O'Hare was not intended to be Chicago's only airport.

Downes called for the renewal of the operating certificate and urged that Chicago Helicopter Airways be permitted to provide service to other metropolitan areas such as Milwaukee, Rockford, and South Bend. "Failure to do so would seriously affect the stature of Chicago as the leading transportation center of the world," he said.

Edward J. Taaffe, Professor of Geography at Northwestern University, testified that a one-month study he conducted for the Aviation Department indicated that the need for fast service between O'Hare and the Loop will increase with the expected rise in traffic on the North-west Expressway.

The revitalization of Midway will be necessary, he said, to handle the transportation needs of the Midway area population which is expected to rise to nearly three million by 1960. The increased traffic at Midway will require helicopter service to the south side airport from the Loop and even from areas surrounding O'Hare, Taaffe said.

Barnard G. Cunningham, Park Forest village president and Emil Adamec, Bedford Park village president emphasized that operations from Midway were "vital" to their communities. Adamec, in a prepared statement, said that the fate of Bedford Park depended upon the success of the Clearing Industrial District's attempt to provide adequate transportation for industrial development in the area which, in turn, is linked to the fate of Midway.

Will Conduct Tours At Hospital Open House

This is the third in a series of articles on the work done at Tinley Park State Hospital, where open house will be held Sunday, April 28, between one and four p.m. The hospital will be open for all interested people to visit. Tours will be conducted and a nursery will be provided.

The Tinley Park State Hospital psychology department is host this week to the annual meeting of the Illinois Department of Mental Health Supervising Psychologists. A distinguished group of guest psychologists, psychiatrists, and an anthropologist are participating as panelists. Meetings began at 1 o'clock on Wednesday, April 17, and will end at noon Friday. "Psychology Internship in State Hospitals and Clinics" was the topic at Wednesday's panel, led by Dennis Kamano, Ph. D., Chief Psychologist, Galesburg State Research Hospital. Thursday afternoon's panel will be on "Group and Millau Therapy programs and Related Research," led by William Rodenbeck, Ph. D., Chief Psychologist, Chicago State Hospital. Eight panelists will be involved in each.

Tinley Park's Chief Psychologist is Herbert Altschuler. Two intern psychologists complete the psychology staff. They are Stephen Maurer, Tinley Park, and David Steindorf, Tinley Park. This clinical exper-

Detroit, St. Louis or Kansas City in a faster time than it takes to travel from Park Forest to O'Hare.

Waukegan Airport manager Arthur E. Quaid and Vernon Welsh, president of Winnetka submitted figures showing that the cost of parking at O'Hare exceeded the projected cost of helicopter service from Waukegan and the present cost from Winnetka.

Quaid indicated that limousine and private aircraft service from Waukegan could not compete favorably with helicopter rates. Welsh said that aside from helicopter service, there was no direct means of transportation to O'Hare from Winnetka and surrounding communities.

CAB Hearing Examiner Leslie G. Donahue continued the hearing to April 22 in Washington D. C. when spokesmen for various government departments will testify about the uses of the helicopter service.

SHORT AND SWEET

Washington's second inaugural address, though brief, was not without a touch of his wry sense of humor. He said: "If it shall be found during my administration of the Government I have in any instance violated willingly or knowingly the injunctions thereof, I may (besides incurring constitutional punishment) be subject to upbraiding of all who are now witnesses of the present solemn ceremony" . . .

Of those making more than one inaugural address James Monroe was among the very few whose second speech was longer than the first . . . Theodore Roosevelt was the briefest of the Presidents who served since the turn of the century. His inaugural address ran to 1,000 words—about the length of a single standard-sized newspaper column . . .

The shortest address made by a multi-term President—since that of George Washington—was the 593 word speech of Franklin D. Roosevelt at his fourth inauguration January 20, 1945.

Push Plans For Little League: Field Assured

MRS. EDWARD HOVI
479-5740

A second meeting to form the Little League in Arbury Hills, held at the school on Tuesday, April 9, was attended by ten men.

Edward Feeley, the contractor has graciously donated a section of property near the proposed shopping center as a ball field. He informed us that he would have the property graded and, material being available, furnish the material for a backstop. The equipment for grading would probably not be here before early May.

Paul Schubert, Bill Roach and Carl Lawson volunteered for the field procurement committee, and they will make the necessary arrangements with Mr. Feeley.

The financial committee for the present time will consist of a group of men from the board of directors of the Arbury Hills Civic Association; Francis Cronos, Frank Riesbeck, James Lillie and Dick Prather, who are acquainted with raising funds for the Civic Association dance for the benefit of the Little League.

Lists have been sent out to the school to ascertain the number of boys who would be interested in participating in Little League play.

So far approximately 48 boys between the ages of eight and 12 1/2 have signed up. In addition some boys between the ages of 13 and 15 have also signed up. This is over the Little League age, and another separate team is being planned for them, which would play in the Mokena baseball league.

There will be a sign-up date at the school on April 27 from 9:00 a.m. until 12 noon, at which time there will be a fee of $3.50 collected to defray the cost of athletic insurance.

Monday, April 29, is tentatively set for a meeting for the district director of Little Leagues, Bob Arvison, to talk and show movies on Little League.

Those men who have showed their interest thus far are appreciated, but more are needed. Fifteen men will be needed for committees and an additional four managers and four coaches and umpires. Any interested men are asked to attend the next meeting.

There are no sponsors at this time from merchants, but there is hope with the shopping center going in. Right now the only financial support available is from the Civic Association Benefit Dance to be held April 20 at the Mokena V.F.W. hall.

The Civic Association spring dance will be held this Saturday, April 20 starting at 8:00 p.m. at the Mokena V.F.W. hall just south of the rail road tracks on the west side of the street. The V.F.W. has generously donated the use of the hall as their contribution to the Little League.

Music will be provided by Wayne Swanberg and his Rhythm Knights. There will be food available at the dance and special prizes will be awarded that night.

Tickets for the dance will be $1.50 per person, $3 per couple. The proceeds from the dance will be used to provide protective equipment for the Little League, and any additional will be used for their sports equipment, balls, bats, bases. Tickets may be obtained from any officer or board of director member, or they may be purchased at the door the night of the dance.

Following is a list of names, compiled by the dance committee of the Civic Association, of those girls who would be available to act as baby sitters for those needing them to be able to attend the spring dance: Miss Phyllis Estes, 479-5888; Miss Carolyn Markl, 479-5919; Miss Sharon Schubert, 479-5448; Miss Coleen Brady, 479-5851; Miss Pat De Gries, 479-3301; Miss Lynn Fitch, 479-5646; and Miss Pat Bryson, 479-5298. Al Behnke of Arbury Hills presented his one man exhibit of his photographic prowess, along with an exhibit of Matthew Brady reproductions at the Valley View Farm. Mr. Behnke's exhibit will be on view in the lobby of the restaurant through until the end of April, but the Matthew Brady exhibit was only available for one week, and has now been returned.

There was an open house viewing for the school of the Brady exhibit on Tuesday afternoon April 9. At the open house there was served cokes and potato chips for the young people. The participating schools were: Arbury Hills School, seventh and eighth grade; Mokena School, fourth and fifth grade; Providence high school History club, and a contingent of fifty from Sacred Heart High School. Mr. Behnke gave a short talk on the importance of Matthew Brady as a Civil War Photographer, and distributed pamphlets to the group.

The Summit Hill Parent-Teacher Group held their April election meeting at the school last Thursday, April 11. Those officers elected were: president, John Smith; vice president, Mrs. Claude Hart; both from Arbury Hills; secretary, Mrs. John Chestnut, from the rural area; and Mrs. William Lachowicz, from Arbury Hills.

There were also two committees formed at this meeting. The first committee set up was for the all-school picnic at Mokena Community Park on Sunday, June 2. No chairman was appointed, and the workers are: Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Kronick, both from Arbury Hills; and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Sandy from Tinley Gardens.

The other committee set up was for the Fun Fair to be held at the school on Saturday, Oct. 19. Careless Car Owners Make Automobile Stealing Easy

There is a statute in Illinois that makes it unlawful for an automobile owner to leave his keys in the ignition when the car is unattended. There are many states that have a similar law and if obeyed the number of auto thefts would be reduced materially.

Too many car owners ignore this law. Some do this deliberately. Some figure it more convenient to leave the keys in the lock rather than search thru pockets or purse. In some instances when cars are used for business several different persons may use the same vehicle and rather than have several keys made or transferring them from one person to another they leave them in the car.

Sometimes a motorist will forget. His attention may be diverted when he gets out of the car or he may have packages to carry in and gets his hands occupied before he thinks of the keys. He goes off with the intention of coming back for the keys but too frequently forgets all about them.

Whatever the reason or excuse for leaving keys in their cars the fact remains that American auto owners operate a "red carpet service" for car thieves," according to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

It is certainly easy for the thief when all he has to do is climb in the unlocked car and turn the key that has been left in the ignition, and off he goes.

In 1962 some 350,000 automobiles valued at more than $290-million were stolen in this country, an increase of 9% over the number taken in 1961, the figures show.

"An alarming percentage of these cars," to quote the FBI chief, "were left with keys in the ignition. For example, two 13-year-old youths recently went on an interstate car-stealing spree, stealing eight motor vehicles in two days. In each instance, the keys had been left in the ignition."

To borrow some more of the bureau's statistics, 86% of all the arrests for auto thefts in the nation last year involved persons under 25 years of age; approximately 54% of all persons charged with the larceny of an automobile were referred to juvenile courts.

"Joy rides and neighborhood jaunts by young people in stolen cars are not prankish capers of restless youth," Hoover states. "They are crimes, costly, dangerous and senseless violations. To the law enforcement officer, they represent even more. From experience, he recognizes the problem as a prelude to more violent crimes and the launching of criminal careers.

"The ease with which automobiles are stolen is astonishing. To hoodlums and professional gangs, who rely heavily on 'hot' cars for their nefarious activities, appropriating a suitable vehicle is considered a very minor phase of otherwise elaborate and complicated criminal schemes. Most veteran bank robbers use stolen cars to aid their escape from crime scenes. Thrill thieves and juvenile gangs which steal cars for stripping and resale of parts are increasing. Car theft rings continue to flourish. . . . The motoring public must come to know that thru indifference it not only contributes to but also condones the problem. . . .

"Car thieves, adult and juvenile, must be dealt with realistically. Their role in the continuing rise of crime cannot be dismissed lightly.

"With a little diligence, American automobile owners could strike a great blow for crime prevention. By the simple act of locking ignitions, removing ignition keys and locking unattended cars, an amazing reduction in auto thefts could be realized."

The Illinois law concerning leaving keys in ignitions could be and should be strengthened. As it stands now a motorist is subject to a fine of up to $300 for leaving keys in the ignition lock if the car is left unattended on a public street or highway. If he parks the car in his driveway or in his own private parking lot he can leave the keys dangling from the lock and is not subject to arrest.

It should be pointed out that when parked on a street or highway the keys of a car must not only be removed from the ignition lock but the ignition itself must be locked.

Some law enforcing agencies are doing something about careless or lazy motorists who leave their keys in unattended cars.

In Joliet, for example, police are checking cars parked along the streets and when they find one with the keys hanging from the ignition lock, the license is checked and the driver is arrested. Police Magistrate Martin Jackson has been fining such motorists and police report that the situation shows some improvement.

It would be well if all of the police in the area followed this example and such careless motorists arrested. It might help them to discontinue a dangerous and costly habit.

Fifth Freedom--To Read

No week in the whole calendar of stated observances has more universal application than National Library Week. And none should have more general applause. This year's observance of National Library Week is set for April 21 to 27. The motto selected is "Read: The Fifth Freedom -- Enjoy It!" And in Illinois, as in other states, civic committees have been enlisted to place special emphasis on that cherished freedom and the means by which every citizen may enjoy it -- the public library.

But the real symbol of Library Week is the open book -- knowledge, entertainment, science and technology, the tools of man's handicraft as well as the arts, the words that have inspired man's progress, and the challenges that have kept progress alive. The public library keeps that book open to all.

There was a time when possession of a library was the privilege only of the very rich, or those in political power who had a bent for book-collecting. But in our day, that privilege is spread over tens of millions of people thru the public library -- the vast people-owned library in the major cities; the people-owned library down the street in the smaller towns. That "Fifth Freedom" of reading is our most cherished intellectual freedom. It should be enjoyed. Its boundaries should be continually enlarged.

And therein lies a major purpose of National Library Week -- to expand the facilities of all our public libraries; to make it possible to offer greater opportunities of enjoyment and instruction everywhere; to eliminate the dark areas on the library map where there is either no service or inadequate service to readers hungry for books; and to create a climate in government and subgovernment where the Public Library's needs are recognized as springing from the citizen's need and aspiration, and are therefore to be given the attention they merit.

Library Week will be observed in every community where a public library exists. Visit your library. Meet the librarians who serve as trustees of this vast asset of ours, and who serve with such admirable understanding and skill.

And remember that back of our public library, back of all the other public libraries, there is that American genius and ideal which early in our history set this Fifth Freedom -- the right to read -- high in our constellation of freedoms.

"Now I have to go home and convince my wife to cut down on her spending..."

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Jefferson P. Throttlebottom a freeloader freeloader, had just finished stowing away his smoking needs for the day at my expense and was now looking over some of the press releases that invited inspection at the edge of my desk.

As he looked he made a running fire of comments....

"Hm-m, press agents busy on all fronts, several new licks ready for the market, Hottentots need aid, Eskimaux need refrigerators, Society for Prevention of Housemade Knees seeking funds for research and to pay the executive director's salary, medicare proponents getting in their licks, American Medical Society getting in its licks... government agencies seeking public support for their pet plans and payrolls, foreign governments trying to enlist support of the American public for their pet plans and payrolls... art exhibits... vitamins... concerts... farm groups... labor groups... wild life fans... national church groups... charm schools... real estate developments 50 miles from here... the tollway commission and its pet plans and projects... flower festivals... patent medicines... oh, oh... now here is something that is something and if the claims of the makers stand up this could be one of the great discoveries of the age!"

Mr. Throttlebottom was visibly excited.

What is it? we ventured, an archeological find, a new and more powerful fuel for rockets, or a miraculous process by which the Administration can cut income taxes and continue its spending binge.

"Nothing like that," Jefferson P. replied, "This is really important. According to this release the Calvert people claim to have produced the first new American whiskey in more than a century. Well, well, that is certainly news and I am surprised the metropolitan press has not emblazoned such tidings on their front pages in large type.

"That could come later, tho, in the event the Russians claim to have invented alcohol or an improved vodka. 'Of course,' Jeff went on, 'no special credit should be forthcoming for improving vodka as it is one of those things that couldn't be made worse.

"On the other hand, when it comes to whiskey, it is like the old timer said, 'All whiskey is good but some is better than another.'

"I don't know tho," Jeff continued, "about this claim of Calverts that its new offering is the first new American whiskey in more than a century. It seems to me that during Prohibition a new whiskey was being produced every day.

"According to the Calverts press agents this is called a 'soft' whiskey, made from a blend of 50 straight whiskeys and grain spirits--straightalky to you--against the usual five or 10. The secret word in this appears to be 'aged spirits,' "The makers ever used aged alcohol as an ingredient in producing whiskey and that it provides softness with staying power in a mixed drink.

"It says here that by storing alky in wood for four years it takes on a 'taste and aroma, derived from an original distilling process."

Mr. Throttlebottom, sometime referred to as "The Judge" by his companions because of his many years of research into the potable qualities of bourbon whiskey, was quite interested in the Calvert claims but declined to commit himself. After all, Jeff is a native Missourian, and has to be shown to be convinced.

"I would have to try some of this stuff before voicing an opinion," Jeff declared, "I have encountered whiskey, especially in Prohibition that not only had a high voltage reading when taken in a mixed drink but if taken neat it had the shocking power of a soft-nosed high calibre pistol slug. As I recall we used to call it 'Old 45'."

"Then there was one commonly referred to as 'whisk broom' whiskey so called that when it was served the bartender moved around beside the customer, carrying a whisk broom. When the patron downed the drink, he would sway for a split second and then down he'd go flat on his back. The bartender would help him up, brush his coat, and go on to the next customer.

"According to this release this new whiskey has a built in recoil and landing pad. At least this is implied when they call the stuff soft.

Dear Sir:

I read your editorial of April 4th, "FAA SAYS OK FOR TVOR", and I agree that this looks confusing. I offer the following definitions in hopes that it will make a little more sense:

TVOR--Terminal VOR (Has a lower output than a VOR)

CONGRATULATES WINNERS

Dear Sir:

I wish to congratulate the winners of the Lincoln-Way Board election. I know they will serve the school well.

As a member of the minority group who formed the opposition I wish to state our objectives again. We have been mostly concerned with raising academic standards by rewarding experienced teachers with adequate pay raises regularly so they will remain at Lincoln-Way.

It was never our thought to do away with the band, the football games, or the buses. This would be impossible, anyway. We would like to see the academic program equal to, or preferably superior to, these programs.

We will continue our interest in Lincoln-Way and support all efforts to improve the quality of education there.

Sincerely,

before, try some of the new recommended vegetable varieties that are included in the revised edition of the "Illinois Garden Guide". Copies of this publication are available at my office.

When buying plants to landscape your home this spring, do your utmost to get stock from your local nurseries. Native grown plants are more likely to do well than mail order stock. Also, these plants you get through the mail might suffer from poor handling or delays enroute.

Bankers, attending the annual conference of Illinois bankers, held at Urbana, were told that agriculture is an expanding industry. Agricultural production will become more mechanized and automated. Capital needs will expand sharply.

The Illinois population may reach more than twelve million by 1975 and farm population could drop from 5.6% of the total to about 3.4% of the 1975 population figure.

A plot to demonstrate the performance of ten varieties has been planted on the Lester Sayers' farm at the junction of Routes 6 and 7. This farm is being farmed by Lloyd Brandau. We are grateful to these gentlemen for cooperating with the Extension Service in planting these oat varieties. Varieties included in this demonstration plot are: Clintland 60, Putnam 61, Garland, Dodge, Minhafer, Lodi, Beedee, Newton, Shield, and Goodfield. Anyone interested in oats is invited to watch this plot during the growing season. At harvest time yield results will be obtained and furnished to anyone interested.

Other demonstrations to be conducted by the Extension Service this year includes weed control on vegetable crops, close planting of onion sets, and mulching with a new asphalt mulching material. More will be reported about these demonstrations throughout the growing season.

Anyone interested in more details about these demonstrations is invited to inquire at the Extension office in Tinley Park.

Hints For Homeowners

BY JAMES FIZZELL,
ASSOCIATE FARM ADVISOR

The winter just past was particularly hard on roses. Those not killed outright were severely killed back. Damaged roses should be pruned to remove injured or dead canes. Cut back to live wood, and preferably to an outside bud. If the plant is dead back to the bud or graft, chances are it will sprout from the roots and should be replaced.

Replacement roses can be set out as the soil is dry enough to work. Bare root plants are available from the nurseries and garden centers now. If you miss your chance to set out plants before leaves come out, you can plant roses grown in containers anytime.

Remember to start your dusting or spraying program as soon as the leaves come out. May 25 is generally considered the frost free date in this locality. This means that frost has never occurred after this date, and it is safe to set out tender plants. Since it is approximately six weeks until May 25, now is the time to start seedlings indoors for good sized plants. Prepare flats or containers in the following manner: (wooden cigar boxes make good flats). Be sure there are sufficient drainage holes in the bottom of the container. Cover the bottom with a layer of

Business & Finance

BY MAURICE P. ANGLAND

A few days ago Wheeling Steel announced a steel price increase that amounted to about $6 per ton. Wheeling Steel's production includes special items as garbage cans, small buckets, etc.

The price increase came as a surprise to most altho financial analysts have been pointing out the need for such an increase to continue a financially healthy steel industry.

The administration made no official comment immediately and understandably on the basis of the experiences of handling the steel price increase of a year ago.

The President has announced that the administration feels it cannot set itself up as the judge of special problems of cost calculations and that industry must handle this matter itself, but that the economic health of the nation demanded these increases in wages and prices be such as to apply to special situations and not inflationary.

This government reaction recognizes that industry is competitive and commodities have wide use competition under various price levels. Industry must be self-policing in price structure due to competition. Aluminum and other metals compete with steel and each other and plastics in certain uses.

Steel Production Improvements.

The steel industry has been plagued with constantly rising labor costs and small margins of profit. Market prices of steel stocks indicate a more critical attitude on the part of investors.

The steel industry is in process of benefit from two major developments in steel making. Oxygen process. This method of producing steel provides lower operating costs thru faster and better conversion of ore.

Despite admitted advantages of the oxygen process, steel makers cannot convert to this process immediately for cost reason and must accrue capital to replace furnace equipment valued at about $4 billion.

At present about 8 per cent of this country's steel production is with the oxygen process. In the next decade, oxygen process steel is expected to exceed tonnage from open hearth converters.

To achieve longer economic life for open hearth converters oxygen processing is used.

Japans steel production is said to be more than half by oxygen process and European steel makers are changing over as fast as they can secure capital to do so.

Continuous Casting Process. U.S. Steel announced a new process for converting molten metal into billets and slabs.

Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel explained the importance of this development, "the continuous casting process has numerous advantages over conventional processing. Less than one hour is required to transform molten steel into high quality slabs ready for further processing while, in contrast the equivalent conventional processing requires many hours, or more frequently days."

In present process there are several stages from ingot to useable steel. As explained by Forbes magazine of April 15, 1963, the continuous casting process uses a tower from which molten steel flows into a water cooled mold and emerges as a single ribbon of steel which is cut to suit additional processing. It is noted that three processing steps are combined into one with lower operating costs and less capital requirement of steel plant.

It is obvious that just to stay competitive in the domestic and world markets, steel makers must show a profit to acquire needed capital and it is certain that regardless of political considerations, steel prices will advance.

Suburbanites Contribute $366,622 To TB Campaign

Response of Cook county suburbanites to the 1962 Christmas Seal fund campaign amounted to $366,622.06, helping to make possible the most successful drive in the 56-years history of The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County.

Yngvar Brynildsen, general chairman of the 1962 appeal, has announced that the total sum raised is $864,567.28, exceeding the $825,000 target by $39,567. In 1961, the $825,000 goal was overreached by $4,788.60.

The suburban increase of over $25,000.00 mainly accounted for the largest sum realized. In 1961 the suburbs gave $341,379.88 to the campaign. Chicago residents' totalled $497,945.22 for the 1962 appeal, compared to $488,408.72 for 1961.

The biggest increase of the suburbs came from Cicero where $18,364.45 was realized compared to $14,669.00 in 1961. The largest contributor is again Evanston which marked $28,252.37 for 1962; $26,889.97 for 1961. At Orland Park the amount raised was $670 last year as compared to $690.

In announcing results of the Campaign, Brynildsen praised the work of his suburban and city chairmen. "The results is a vivid demonstration of the efforts they put into the campaign," he said. "At the same time, we know that their work was fruitful because residents were willing to realize that tuberculosis is everyone's problem and everyone is needed to help fight it. We hope the enthusiastic response to the fund appeal will be repeated in the coming summer free chest X-ray survey."

The success of the Christmas Seal campaign will make it possible for the Institute to tackle other respiratory diseases, which are increasingly on the rise, as well as continue its pursuit to eliminate tuberculosis.

Small Town Police Judge Is "Vanishing American"

Those communities in the area with a population of less than 10,000 will not elect police magistrates again. The general assembly enacted special legislation which has been signed by the governor and is in effect which prohibited the election of police magistrates in communities of less than 10,000 this week even tho they may have been nominated by petition or by primary and their names were on the ballots cast April 16.

Under the amendment to the court article of the state constitution adopted last November (remember the blue ballot?) minor magistrates will be appointed. The legislatures is struggling with various propositions relative to such appointments and indications are that the lawyers of the assembly, of which there is a large number, will sew it up so that no appointments will be made outside of the ranks of attorneys.

What future legislatures may do about this police magistrate business is anybody's guess,

5. IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our
dear daughter and sister,
Sharon Marie who passed away April 13, 1953.
Dad, Mother, Bonnie,
Lloyd, Bill & Tom Uthe

In loving memory of Robert Horn who passed away 4 years ago, April 22.
Sweet are the memories that never fade,
Of one we all love but could not save,
Silent though, a secret tear
Keeps his memory forever
dear.
Loving wife, children
and grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear husband, and father and grandfather, who passed away, one year ago, April 17, 1962.

Deep in our hearts,
A memory is kept of one
we loved,
And never forgot.
Loving Wife, Children,
and Grandchildren.

We want to extend our heartfelt thanks to all our friends, who sent cards, and brought encouragement to our Husband and Father. By their visits with him in the hospital. To the Rev. Theodore Wimmer, for his visits, and pray, and to those who donated blood. We also offer our sincere appreciation to our neighbors, friends, and relatives, for their kindness and help extended to us at the time of the death of our loved one. We will never cease to be grateful to all.
Mrs. Gordon Bruce and Family.

Our sincere thanks to the Tinley Park volunteer Fire
Dept., our friends and neighbors for their help during our recent fire.

8. CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our eternal gratitude to the Orland Park Fire Department for their fine service, and to all of our neighbors for their kind help when it was most needed.

Esther & Earl Fuller
Orland Park Hills

Thank God for saving our home from being destroyed by fire, last Saturday. For the skill and speed of the Vol
firemen of Country Club Hills and Tinley Park, Ill. For the winds that blew the flames away from the house, and for the neighbors who pushed the cars off our driveway, so the fire engines could pull right in.

Signed Medard Wroblewski.

YOUNG MAN IN A HURRY---South Africa's gift to the golf world is 27-year old Gary Player. Player stormed into the pro spotlight with the Masters' title in 1961, then grabbed off the PGA Championship in 1962.

Player Leaps Into Big Money Circle

Perhaps no other golfer in recent years has created the color to the game that has been forthcoming from young Gary Player.

Born in Johannesburg, South Africa, the golfing upstart broke into the professional ranks back in 1953.

Since breaking into the official money winners' circle in 1957 with a total of $3,286.91, Player has played his efforts into a 24th position among pro golfers in lifetime earnings standings.

Player leaped into the forefront of money winners in 1961 by packing off $64,540.45. His total that year beat out rival Arnold Palmer, who topped the list in 1960 and again in 1962.

Player's first major tourney victory came in 1958 with the Kentucky Derby Open crown. Then, in his big year, 1958, he grabbed off the Lucky International Open, the Sunshine Open and the Masters. His victory in the 1962 PGA championship stamped him as a

Nicklaus To Face Player In Special Match

Jack Nicklaus, 1962 USGA Open Champion and 1963 Masters winner, will tee off with Gary Player, 1962 PGA champion, in the "Round of the Champion" to be played May 28 on the Dallas Athletic Club course.

Match is expected to determine a "target" score for the millions of golfers all over the country to shoot for.

contender to be reckoned with in coming years.

Player nearly repeated in the 1962 Masters tournament, only to drop a playoff round to Arnold Palmer. Player, Palmer and Dow Finsterwald each carded 280 over the regulation tour.

During that sudden death playoff, Palmer carded a 68 to Player's 71 and Finsterwald's 77.

But Player will be back in the thick of action again this year, and while most of the arm chair experts are seeing another outstanding year for Arnold Palmer, it is our projected guess that Player will be right down his throat throughout the season.

Palmer Leads In Lifetime Winnings

Arnold Palmer not only topped all money winners last year, but holds a commanding lead in the lifetime earnings department.

Palmer pocketed a total of $82,456.23 last year in 30 competitive events to boost his lifetime total to $344,788.09.

Doug Ford, who finished 29th in money earnings in 1962, trails Palmer in the lifetime statistics with a total of $306,080.51.

Gary Player, who finished 6th in 1962 earnings, moved into 24th place in lifetime earnings. He now is only slightly behind Ben Hogan in the latter department. Hogan inked $153,892.46 into the record books. Player has chalked up $151,830.29 in official winnings.

Interested In Joining PGA? Here Is How

For those golfers contemplating the possibility of becoming a member of the elite Professional Golfers Association of America, but don't begin to know how, here are a few answers.

First of all, to be eligible for membership in the PGA, the applicant must have completed five years as:

1. A head professional at a club,
2. An assistant to a head professional, or
3. An approved tournament player, under an agreement with the PGA, playing in a minimum of 25 tournaments a year.

An applicant can also qualify by having a total of five years of experience in any combination of these various phases. Successful completion of a course at a PGA Business School is accepted as the equivalent of a fifth and/or final year.

How does a man who has all these qualifications go about applying for PGA membership?

The golf professional who has completed his apprenticeship and who desires to become a member of The PGA of America must make formal application to the Association.

Every applicant must appear before the officers or the membership committee of his local PGA section, or oral examination.

After that, his application is investigated by the association's national board of control and published for 30 days for the consideration of all members of the association and their sections.

If he meets all other requirements and if his examination by the local PGA section is satisfactory, he is then elected to membership in the PGA.

At that time, he is given a classification which is appropriate to his specific duties as a professional. The principal classification of members is Class A.

This group includes members regularly employed as professionals at recognized golf clubs and courses, those who own or lease such facilities and those who qualify in other ways under the PGA constitution and by-laws.

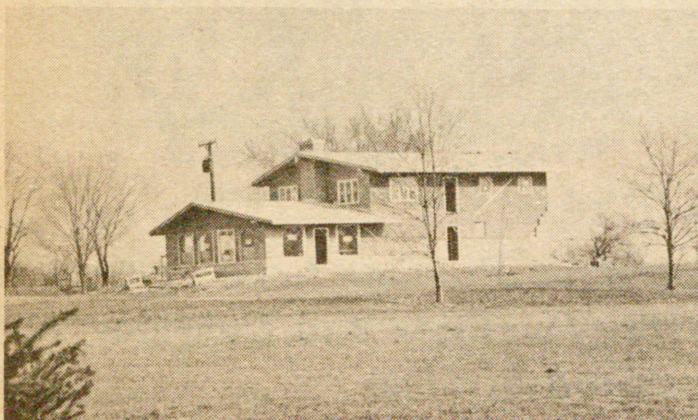

Class A members govern and control the association.

Approved tournament players are not considered PGA members. They are learning the business by playing the PGA tour.

The road to recognition as a golf professional and a member of The PGA of America is a long and difficult one. However according to more than 5,000 PGA members, it is well worth the time and effort.

Player Got Golf Start At Age 14

Gary Player was introduced to golf at 14 years of age by his father. He readily proved he was a "natural" by shooting three successive pars the first time he played a course.

This convinced him golf was his game but his career was nearly nipped in the bud, when, at 15, he broke his neck by diving into a compost heap.

P.G.A. TOURNEY NOTES

BY DOC GIFFIN
Field Press Secretary

OBSERVATIONS OF a second-year traveler who wondered if there was a New Frontier in golf, too, when he noticed that Gardner Dickinson's three partners in the professional-amateur at the Lucky International were Kennedy, Johnson and Washington.

Anyway---

* * * *

THE PROLONGED BUZZ of conversation and debate around the country about Arnold Palmer's disqualification in the Bing Crosby National mainly concerned the difference between the PGA Tour rules and the current USGA rules on the provisional ball and unplayable lie involved in the situation.

But Palmer himself was primarily upset by the end it brought to his string a 47 consecutive Tour finishes in the money, a streak he had started after taking a 12 in the first round of the 1961 Los Angeles Open.

He had moved within three checks on Sam Snead's existing string of 50. Had he kept it alive all year, he would have been within striking distance of Dow Finsterwald's run of 72 in-the-money finishes that ended in 1958.

Byron Nelson's all-time record of 113 looks safer than ever for the moment, particularly when, just a week after Palmer lost his streak, Jack Nicklaus, limping on a sore left hip, missed the cut by a stroke in the Lucky International and therefore failed to collect a check for the first time in his 29 starts as a professional on the Tour.

* * * *

THE CROSBY didn't fail--it never does-- to bring single-hole grief to the players and delight to the "chronicalers" of high scores.

However, this year, the vicious, par-3 16th at Cypress Point wasn't the biggest villain, even though Don January, Bob Bruno and Jim Petersen all required 11 strokes to conquer it.

The 295-yard ninth hole at Cypress did in Canadian George Knudson. The former Coral Gables Open Champion required 13 blows there enroute to an 89 and a pink slip out of the tournament Saturday, noting that "I was closer to the hole in one (in a green-side trap) than I was in 10 (after blading the ball across the green into some inpenetrable vegetation that abounds at the course)."

Yet even that wasn't the worst hole of the week. Dale Douglass, a tall, slender club teaching professional from Lakewood, Colo., unhappily equalled the all-time Crosby high of 19, an unrewarding distinction acquired a few years ago by Ohioan Hans Merrill at Cypress' 16th. Dale Douglass got his 19 on the 10th hole at Pebble Beach, an ocean-bordering, 421-yarder, "and I tried on every shot."

Douglass drove into trouble on the beach and with three unplayable-lie penalty strokes included, finally got back onto the fairway in 14. But he was so tired swinging at the ball that he wasn't able to grip the club properly and knocked his 6-iron approach into more trouble, reaching the green in 17 and two-putting.

To Dale's great credit, he parred the rest of the way in on Pebble's rugged back nine and rebounded the following week by winning $112.50 in the Lucky.

Interestingly, Knudson also recovered at San Francisco, where he made a run at the title for the second year in a row and tied for third.

* * * *

WORST PUN OF THE EARLY 1963 WEEKS: When Gene Bone opened with a 69 in the Crosby, somebody in the press room observed, "Gene's a Bone of contention."

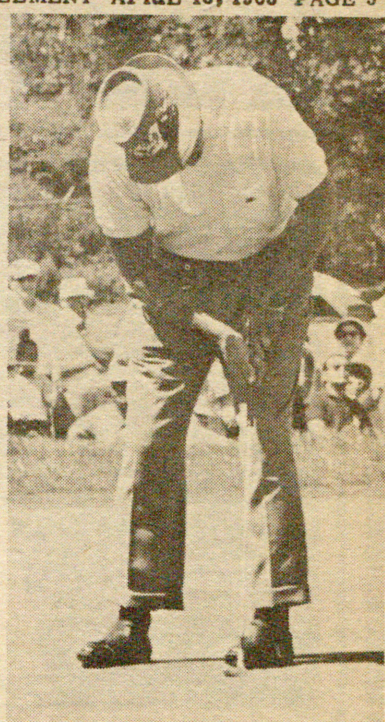

* * * *

THE-HOLE-IN-ONE derby got off to a slow start in the first four tournaments of 1963. Ron Letellier, the California Open Champion originally from Holyoke, Mass., made the first ace in the opening round of the Los Angeles Open. The next one didn't come until Bruce Crampton holed his tee on the 17th hole at Harding Park in the second round of the Lucky.

The young Australian has made two others on the PGA Tour. Lionel Hebert was one of his playing partners when he made the first one in a Kentucky Derby Open at Louisville and John McMullin was in his threesome when Bruce aced a hole at Pensacola. Hebert and McMullin were Crampton's playing partners in the second round at Harding Park this year.

* * * *

YOU'D HAVE THOUGHT a movie actress had just walked into view the way the gallery unloaded with "wolf" whistles when Joe Campbell, wearing lavender slacks and golf shoes, strode onto the 18th green one day in the Los Angeles Open.

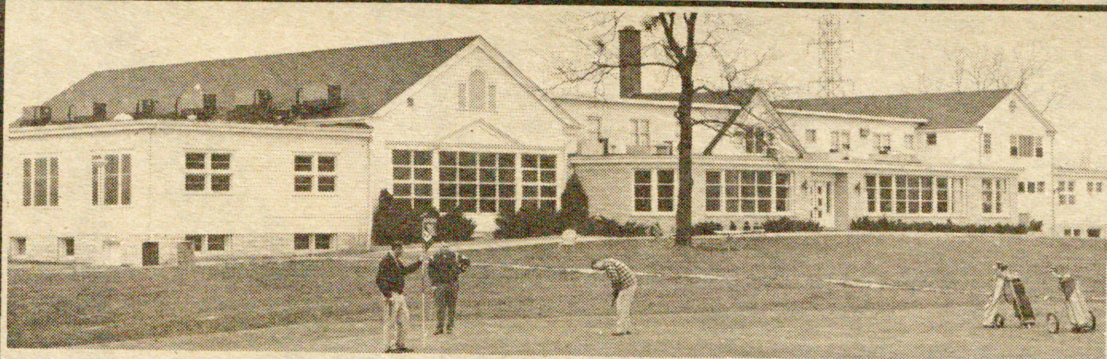

OLD STRAW HAT---Common sight around pro tournaments for several decades is straw-hatted Slammin' Sam Snead. The ageless Snead gave the youngsters a chase in the recent Masters tourney, before three-putting on the 16th and bogeying the 18th in the final round. Going on 51 years old next month, Snead hung on to finish in a two-way tie for third in the Masters with Julius Boros.

Change In Format

33rd State Amateur Tourney At Rockford

The 33rd annual Illinois State Amateur Golf Championship will be played at Forest Hills Country Club in Rockford June 18, 19, and 20.

For the first time the state amateur golf king will emerge after 72 holes of stroke play instead of match as heretofore.

Changes in the championship format were announced earlier this year by Ralph C. Peterson tournament chairman of the Chicago District Golf Association. His committee includes Thomas W. Milligan, Charles N. Eckstein, Robert L. David, Merritt M. Lovett, Lennox G. Haldeman, George Doughty and Stacy W. Osgood, CDGA president.

Until 1962, the tournament consisted of a 36-hole qualifying round followed by four days of match play. A petition from the players requested a change to lessen the time consumed by this format and last year the Chicago District Golf Association tested an 18-hole sectional qualifying June 11 at Champaign and Midlothian. Thirty-two players started match play a week later at Butterfield Country Club in Hinsdale where Ace Ellis of Evanston defeated John P. Morrell of Wheaton, 4 and 3.

During a series of winter meetings, the committee considered criticisms of the 1962 tests, primarily an 18 hole qualifying round, instead of 36, and the fact that match play was limited to 32, instead of 64. It was unanimously agreed this year that the 1963 competition will be stroke play. Entries will be limited to 180 legal residents of Illinois whose handicaps are 5 or under. All contestants will play 18 holes June 18 and June 19. The field will be cut for the third round June 20 and cut again, probably to the low thirty scorers and ties for the final 18 hole round that afternoon.

Practice round for the Rockford area will be held June 10, and for other participants June 17. Entry fee will be $15 and must be received by the Chicago District Golf Association, LaSalle Hotel, Chicago, by June 7.

Forest Hills Country Club will present a championship test over 6,258 rolling, wooded, and well-trapped yards. Par is 36-35-71 and the course record of 31-32-63 is held by Dean Lind, a member, and twice CDGA Junior Champion (1948-1949).

Jack Nicklaus Flashes Onto Golf Horizon

Never in the long history of golf has a new star flashed so brilliantly onto the professional scene as Jack Nicklaus did in his debut in 1962.

When the husky, then 21-year-old rusty-blond from Columbus, Ohio, surprised much of the golfing world in late 1961 by announcing that he was turning professional, the consensus was that he couldn't miss.

His great record, highlighted by two USGA Amateur Championships, backed that up. He had played brilliantly, too, in several tournament appearances with the professionals.

Still, nobody, with the possible exception of the self-assured Nicklaus himself, expected him to vault into such a prominent position in the professional picture in 1962.

In his fabulous freshman year, for which he was almost automatically recognized by GOLF DIGEST as the "Rookie of the Year," the boyishfaced 200-pounder;

-- Became the youngest man in almost 40 years to win the USGA Open, besting Arnold Palmer in an 18-hole playoff.

-- Captured two other Tour championships, winning the Seattle and Portland Opens on successive Sundays with scores of 265 and 269 respectively, at Portland undaunted by a two-stroke "slow play" penalty.

-- Won a check in every one of his 26 starts, the largest $15,000 for his USGA Open victory and $10,000 for his second-place finish in the Thunderbird Classic and the smallest $33.33 in his first start in the Los Angeles Open.

-- Finished among the top 10 in 16 tournaments.

-- Received the year's biggest single check for a competitive victory--$50,000--when he defeated Palmer and Gary Player in the televised, 36-hole "World Series of Golf."

-- Won more official money -- $61,868.95 -- and finished higher on the money list -- third -- than any first-year man in the history of tournament golf.

Nicklaus started slowly when he joined the Tour in California, and tied for the last money spot in the Los Angeles Open.

He tied for second in the Phoenix Open, finished third in the Doral Open, failed to make a strong showing in the Masters, then really shifted into high gear.

His first real bid for a title came in the Houston Classic where he tied Bobby Nichols, the eventual winner, and Dan Sikes for first after 72 holes. But he trailed Nicklaus and Sikes by five shots in the playoff and was eliminated.

Nicklaus made an exciting final-round charge in the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic that came within a long putt of catching winner Gene Littler.

During the USGA Open, Nicklaus, who has accepted good-naturedly the rather uncomplimentary nickname of "Baby Beef," which refers to his rather ample girth ("I don't care what they call me as long as I win"), displayed the poise of a veteran. He methodically tied Palmer on a pressure-packed Saturday and defeated the reigning king of golf in the Sunday playoff.

Jack's putting on the treacherous Oakmont Country Club greens was truly remarkable. He three-putted only once during the 90 nerve-racking holes and in the playoff never trailed Palmer, finishing with a 71 to Arnold's 74.

In his next five starts on the Tour, Nicklaus was never higher than eighth. Then, at Seattle, he moved two strokes in front of the field with a 54-hole 197, equalling the lowest three-round score of the year, and beat fast-closing Tony Lema.

The following week he led the Portland Open from start to finish, but had to endure one of the most publicized incidents of the season when he was penalized two strokes at the end of the second round under the PGA's "slow play" rule.

Since the beginning of the year, Nicklaus has won the Palm Springs Golf Classic and grabbed off the Masters title.

He has tied for 24th in the Los Angeles Open and tied for second in the Bing Crosby National, placed third in the Phoenix Open, tied for 8th in the new Orleans Open and tied for 9th at Doral.

Nicklaus' professional career was in the making since, at 10, he played his first nine holes of golf and shot 51. Encouraged by his father, Charles Nicklaus, owner of a group of Columbus drug stores, and Jack Grout, professional at Scioto Country Club, Jack began to polish his spectacular game.

He won his first major tournament -- the Ohio Open -- when he was 16. A high school baseball and basketball star, too, he entered Ohio State University and while there won the National Collegiate Athletic Association title.

Although still two semesters away from a diploma, he decided to go into the insurance business in 1961 to help support his wife, Barbara, and the child they are expecting -- Jack Jr., now a year old.

"I was trying to do three jobs, school, business and golf, at once and I wasn't doing justice to any of them," he explained. "I don't enjoy playing bad golf, so I figured if I could make a good living doing what I liked best, why not?"

P.G.A. TOURNEY NOTES

BOB GOALBY took an unmerciful ribbing from some of the other players as he had trouble during the early weeks of the season getting his game back to the peak of 1962, when he finished fifth on the money list. Object of the jibes: his marriage over the Christmas holidays to Sarah Dillaha of Little Rock.

Another holiday newlywed was Jon Gustin, who was married to Peggy Henderson of Birmingham, his hometown. Gustin, who with 44 tournaments on his 1962 record was the busiest professional on the Tour last year, won't be in 1963. He'll leave the Winter Tour to take over his new duties as professional at Echo Lake, N.J.

BEST NEW IDEA AT A TOURNAMENT: A large diagram of Rancho golf course near the scoreboard, on which the names and positions on the course of each threesome was shown, so that spectators could tell quickly just where to find a particular player or group without having to prowl the course.

THOMAS JEFFERSON may have been elected President but he failed to qualify for the Los Angeles Open.

ARNOLD PALMER'S 3-wood was just excess baggage during his four rounds enroute the Los Angeles Open Championship. He never used it on the drought-hardened Rancho fairways, even though three of the holes measure more than 500 yards.

The good-natured Champion attended a pre-tournament dedication of a plaque at Rancho's ninth hole which "commemorates" the 12 he took there in 1961.

Just as he did after that crushing blow, Palmer patiently put up with a jostling crowd of autograph-seekers for some 45 minutes after his third-round 77 at the Crosby as he inched his way the 300 yards from the 18th green to the foot of the stairs to his apartment at Pebble Beach.

Then, he stood on the bottom step until he had obliged everybody there, finally encouraging two shy little girls to come over with their paper and pencil.

This is a champion in more ways than just in golf. One final Palmer note. You want to know who originated the now-universally-used-and-understood "Arnie's Army?" Johnny Hendrix of the Augusta Chronicle at the 1960 Masters. My authority? Palmer himself. Any arguments?

BOB GOALBY had to take his first lost-ball penalty in six years on the Tour when somebody apparently picked one up on him during the Los Angeles Open. The same thing happened to Bruce Crampton there.

JACK BURKE, at the presentation after he won the Lucky: "I don't know about you Californians letting two Texans (he and runnerup Don January) come in here and run off with all that gold. But we have large families (each has four children) and we need it."

ANOTHER SWITCH FROM 1962 DURING THE FIRST FOUR WEEKS OF 1963: Both the San Diego and Bing Crosby tournaments had to be decided by playoffs last year, but there were no extra holes played in the first four tournaments this year.

MAURIE LUXFORD, the genial, energetic director of play at the Crosby was telling the gallery at the 18th green at Pebble Beach about Comedian Phil Harris and professional Dave Hill leading the professional-amateur:

"When this news gets out, 4,000 people will resign from Alcoholics Anonymous."

USUALLY AND UNDERSTANDABLY, a golfer is not very happy when he fails to play a decent trap shot. In the San Diego Open, Bob McCallister had his sand trouble finally got the ball on the green, tucked the wedge under his arm and applauded himself, remarking "Atta boy, McCallister, you finally got it out."

THE LOS ANGELES Junior Chamber of Commerce must have been watching TV commercials. To discourage youngsters from scaling the fences to get into Rancho for the tournament, the Jaycees smeared the tops of the fences with "greasy kid stuff."

CASUAL WATER accumulated around the back of the ninth green on the last day of the San Diego Open at Stardust Country Club from a rare source. It got so cold early Sunday morning that a water pipe along the roof of the adjacent clubhouse burst and temporarily flooded the area.

CHARLIE SIFFORD was the only player to break 70 at Pebble Beach during this year's Crosby. He had 34-35--69. Last year, the 286s shot by Doug Ford and Joe Campbell at the Crosby were the highest winning totals of the year. Odds are that the same will go for Bill Casper's winning score there--285--this year.

REX BAXTER JR. made five consecutive birdies in his third round, while Bob Rosburg parred each of his last 28 holes in the Lucky. Bob Goalby holds the consecutive-birdies-record--eight--in the 1961 St. Petersburg Open. There is no record on consecutive pars.

MASON RUDOLPH spotted Dave Marr after Marr had shot a closing 65 in the Lucky and asked: "What did you do--cut across?"

Suburbs Around Long Time

(CNS) How long have suburbs been around?

John Q. Public may have the notion that suburbs have mushroomed into existence only since World War II.

However, of 25 Southwest suburbs of 2,500 population and over, only six were incorporated after World War I, according to the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission. They were: Oak Forest in 1947; Hickory Hills, 1951; Hometown, 1953; Palos Hills and Palos Heights, 1959; and Crest Hill, 1960.

Lockport was incorporated in 1853, seven years before the outbreak of the Civil War. Lemont in 1873 was the only other Southwest suburb incorporated during the period when waterways determined transportation routes.

Twelve Southwest suburbs were incorporated during the railroad era from 1880 to 1920. These towns with their date of incorporation were: Orland Park, Tinley Park, and Wilmington in -892; Evergreen Park in 1893; Romeoville, 1895; Posen, 1900; Oak Lawn, 1909; Clammet Park, 1912; Stickney, 1913; Chicago Ridge and Worth 1914; and Robbins, 1917.

With the coming of automobiles into the transportation picture the Twenties saw only the incorporation of three southwest suburbs: Markham, 1925; Alsip and Midlothian, both in 1927.

So you see, John Q., while urban population sprawls into these communities in ever greater numbers, they've been around for some time.

DEVIL'S ELBOW---18th hole on the south 18-hole layout at Silver Lake Country Club is one of a group of hazards gracing the 6,232 yard course. Featuring a rolling series of holes with several wooded ravines and three water hazards, the famous "Devil's Elbow" provides one of the greater challenges. A new short "nine" course, featuring scenic hills, woods and creeks is slated for opening at Silver Lake later this year.

Lone Letterman

Lemont Golf Squad Young, Rebuilding

Lemont high school golfers are currently engaged in a "rebuilding year" according to Coach John Jones.

And Jones has evidence to back up his statement.

The Lemont golf coach was greeted by one lone varsity letterman as practice sessions got underway early this month. Ron Bonick, a senior, will be the only veteran on an otherwise young, but promising squad.

Jones can take heart, however, in the fact that he does have five frosh-soph lettermen on hand for this year's varsity campaign. Up from last year's frosh-soph squad which posted a 6 won, 2 lost record, are Steve Otto, Ken Ekkert, Ken Mangrum, Frank Bradbury and Ray Machaski.

Top prospects on the varsity team, according to Coach Jones are Steve Otto and Ken Ekkert who are expected to battle it out for the number 1 position. Kenny Mangrum and Denny Shifflet are expected to push them hard during the coming season.

Using the Big Run golf course as home base, the Lemonters will face the following schedule:

April 9, Reavis away
April 19, Oaklawn away
April 26, Reavis home
April 29, Rich Central away
April 30, Marian Catholic away
May 2, Hinsdale home
May 3, Sandburg home
May 6, Naperville home
May 9, Joliet Catholic away
May 10-11, District tourney at Big Run

May 14, Hinsdale away
Also, matches against Lockport, Lindbloom of Chicago and Sandwich remain to be scheduled. Meets with Lockport will be slated on a home-and-home basis, the Lindbloom and Sandwich contests will be single meets.

Three Lettermen

Sandburg Boasts Squad Candidates

Carl Sandburg Golf Coach Richard Finley will have three returning lettermen on hand this season, backed up by a host of outstanding candidates for the Eagles varsity squad.

Returning lettermen are Dick Coghill, Dave McIntosh and Joe Bozic.

EAGLES SCHEDULE

Apr. 5 - Morton West at Oak Hills
Apr. 11 - Kankakee at Silver Lake
Apr. 17 - Blue Island at Oak Hills
Apr. 19 - Reavis at Oak Hills

Walnut Hills Is Prepared For Play

The Walnut Hills Country Club facilities, Clubhouse and Grounds are ready for the 1963 season. Better playing conditions are being offered each succeeding year by Chicagoland golf courses which rank the best in the country.

The pro shop is offering more display space this year, is fully equipped, has many new styles and all sizes for men and women.

The dining room is air conditioned. The Chef prepares tasty luncheon specials each day plus a full menu every day, serving breakfast, lunch and dinner, Steaks, chops, ribs, lobster tail and other sea foods, sandwiches, etc. Salad bar and smorgasbord on Wednesday and Friday.

Ken Zanzig, superintendent, is starting his 10th season at Walnut Hills.

"We are happy to report to our guests that the spring of 1963 finds that our greens came thru our most severe winter in excellent shape," Zanzig says.

"The fairways are greening up beautifully in response to our program of consistent feeding and grooming.

"The fall and spring sodding of tees and new plantings around the Clubhouse area has been rewarding in eye appeal," he concluded.

How Now, Round Ball?

Many golfers have reason to leap for joy over carding a hole-in-one. But listen to this...Errie Ball, professional at the Oak Park Country Club in Oak Park, scored two aces in one nine-round outing on his home course.

Then, on the 11th hole, Ball just missed his third of the day as his ball slithered past the hole by a mere foot.

Golfers Since 1916
